

strawberryfrog vs. the dinosaur

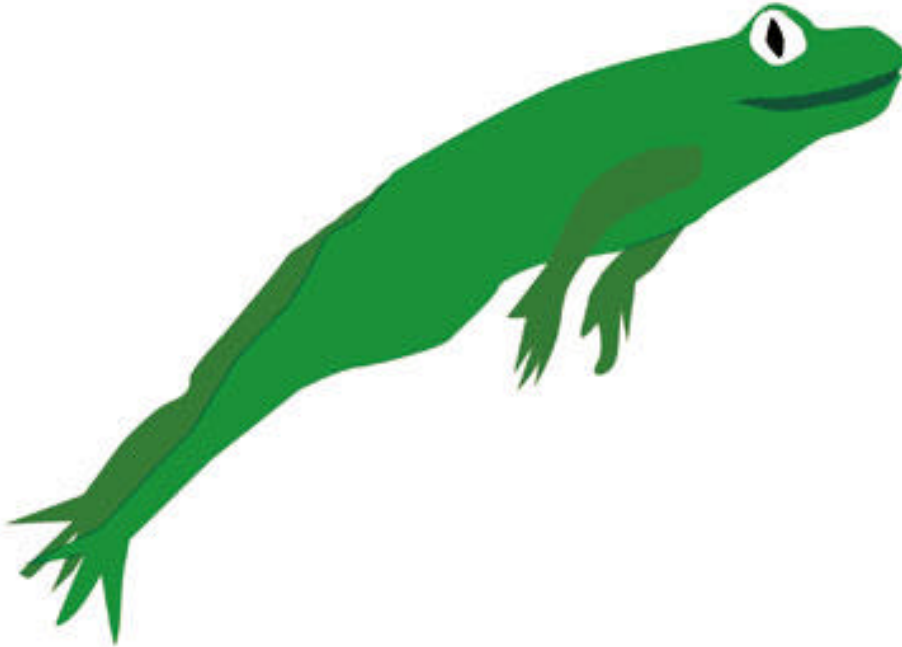

The days of the dino are numbered. For too long, they've been too big, too mean and much too ugly. Today the dinosaur is up against a creature he wishes had never been born. Something quicker, smaller, more versatile and a hell of a lot better looking.

This one is the Egosaurus. He's only concerned about himself, getting all the credit, and making the most billings for his office.

Wow - this one's big! It's the Bureaucratosaurus, and is known for its long meetings and piles of paper work.

By now you might be thinking: "WHO DO THESE FROGS THINK THEY ARE?"

Well, it's simple; we're small but we think big. We challenge the corporate advertising network dinosaurs, using revolutionary technology and the world's best talent.

We're a bunch of multicultural, strategic, creative frogs (and a very hairy frog who's actually a dog).
